Technical Reference Chapters

Country Specific Information (CSI)

Market Analyses

Country Desk Reviews

Climate Risk Fact Sheet

Plenary: Reflection Questions

---

Which RFA supporting documents (i.e., Technical Reference Chapters, country specific information, market analyses, country desk reviews and climate risk fact sheets) are most/least useful and why?

How is the information being used in designing FFP development applications? If not, what information is used

What are the information gaps?

Small Group Work: Country Specific Information (CSI)

---

- Does the CSI have the right level of detail?
- Is it clear what FFP is asking for in the CSI?
- Do you feel like you have to address everything in the CSI in order to be successful?
- What additional information would be useful?
- Is there a different/better way to clarify FFP's goals and expectations?

Small Group Work: Supporting Documents In-depth

- Does the document contain the necessary information in a useable format to inform the development of the application?
- Is the document disseminated at the right time or should it be sequenced, earlier, later?
- What information do implementers need to design development food security activities that are not in this supporting document?

Consultation recording and presentation can be found on the FSN Network website at fsnnetwork.org
