

The TOPS Program www.thetopsprogram.org www.fsnnetwork.org info@thetopsprogram.org

Questions for Discussion

Tara Noronha

From your experiences, what is unique about engaging youth in agriculture? Do you think current agriculture programs are engaging male and female youth appropriately and effectively? Why or why not?

Dan Norell

How can we better design and implement new food security programs such as DFAPs to address the needs of young moms and dads to engage in markets as self-employed or employees so that stunting is reduced?

Malini Tolat

What kind of systems interventions are needed to improve livelihood opportunities for youth in rural areas, especially agriculture?

The Technical and Operational Performance Support (TOPS) Program and Food Security and Nutrition (FSN) Network are made possible by the generous support and contribution of the American people through the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID). The contents of this presentation do not necessarily reflect the views of USAID or the United States Government.

The TOPS Program www.thetopsprogram.org www.fsnnetwork.org info@thetopsprogram.org

Additional Questions for Discussion

How would you design youth/agriculture programs differently from general agriculture programs?

What are youth-specific systemic challenges that should be priorities for FFP at the policy level?

The Technical and Operational Performance Support (TOPS) Program and Food Security and Nutrition (FSN) Network are made possible by the generous support and contribution of the American people through the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID). The contents of this presentation do not necessarily reflect the views of USAID or the United States Government.